LOCO OVER TWENTY MILLION DOLLARS Boundaries of the Burned District-Over Thirty Blocks of Handsome Buildings in Ashes-Loss and Insurance,

PORTLAND, Oregon, June 7 .- The following is a copy of the San Francisco Examiner's re-port of the great fire in Seattle: The entire business portion of Seattle is now nothing but king ruins. About 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon, some turpentine caught fire in the basement of a two-story frame building on the southwest corner of Front and Madison streets. The building, which was owned by Mrs. Margaret Peuteus and the first story of which was leased by the Seattle Shee store and the upper floor being occupied as offices, was soon ablaze. The alarm was instantly turned in and the volunteer fire department responded promptly, but it was impossible to make any headway against the flames. This building, like most others of its kind in the business center, was not detached, but was a corner one of a row of frame buildings, all joined together and of various heights. Valiantly did the fire department fight the fire, but without avail, for the buildings of tinder were an easy prey to what within ten minutes from the time it started enveloped in the conflagration.

LIQUOR BARRELS EXPLODE. Adjoining the first building was the wholesale liquor store of Deitz & Meyer, and as soon as the fire reached the barrels of liquor they exploded with terrific reports, and scattered the flaming timbers far and wide. The Denny block, in which was a wholesale confectionery store; Gilmore & Co.'s real estate office and several establishments, including a number of offices and some lodging apartments, were offices and some longing apartments, were soon licked completely. This cleared out the entire square. Efforts to flood the Coleman building, on Front street, to the south were utterly useless, for the flames leaped across Marion street with greedy rapidity to the Palace saloon and Opera House saloon, and in ess than thirty minutes another square was purned to ashes, taking Addison S. Smith's grocery, Merchant's wholesale confectionery and fruit store, J. W. Lang & Co.'s drug store, John Spencer's plumbing and steam fitting establishment, R. G. Graham's tailor shop, Edgar Bryan's pawn shop, Palace restaurant, Simson Bros' shoe store, Gering & O'Konnell's jewelry store, Shuster's barber shop, Lesly's clothing store and Donnally & Marion's cloth-mg store.

While the square was burning the opera bouse block, on the east side of Front street, between Madison and Marion, and extending up Marion half way to Second street, caught fire in the upper story. This building, a fine three-story brick structure, owned-by George F. Freye and valued at $120,-000, soon yielded to the irrepressible flames. With it went the Seattle pharmacy, the warehouse, Golden Rule bazar, Harris & Co.'s large dry goods and clothing store, Abernathy's store, Crosse & Co.'s undertaking estab-nent, Latur's large dry goods house, adma's paint and oil establishment, clear and wharf in the city was totally destroyed. The course water front, including all wharves the docks, coal bunkers and railway tracks, wholesale quarters, and everything south of Union street, and everything south of Union street, and reaching around to the gas works and above Fourth street on Jackson, was completely burned. It is estimated that the total loss to the city in buildings alone is easily ten million dellars, and all-personal losses will probably reach twenty million dellars. Whether there is much loss of life cannot yet be ascertained. There is great privation felt among the poor classes, as nearly every restaurant and grocery in the city was consumed by fire. The burned district comprises sixty-four acres. It presents the aspect of a huge oven of burning coals, and threatens oven further destruction.

The firemen, retaforced by Tacoma and Snohomich, are on the alert. The streets all through the night were downed with people wandering about penniless and homeless. The militia and extra police are to be seen on every corner guarding property against thievos and vandals. One hundred arrests have already been made.

Everybody seems in good spirits, as it is hard to realize the dreadful fullness of this sudden calamity. When Tokla & Singerman's building fell about thirty people were near it and many of them were crushed. Similar accidents befell most of the large buildings.

A BRAVE ENGINEER Saves a Hundred People From a Horrible

Death.
BIRMINGHAM, Ala., June 7.—[Special.]—A rightful disaster and great loss of life was averted this morning by the presence of mind of a brave engineer. The south bound fast express on the Alabama Great Southern road ran into a burning trestle 65 miles south of this city at 2 o'clock this programs. The court is mall and backers cars went trestle 65 miles south of this city at 20 clook this morning. The engine, mail and baggage cars went down with the burning trestle, but the two passenger coaches and the sleeper, containing over one hundred recopic were saved. The trestle was 175 feet in length and 40 feet high at the highest point. The trestle was only a few feet south of a sharp curve. As the train rounded the curve at a high rate of speed, the engineers aw the trestle on fire. He reversed his engine and applied the art brakes and blowing the danger whistle, leaped for his life. The fireman, baggage and express agents, all leaped in time, and escaped with a few brakes. As soon as the engine reached the thickest of the flames the trestle gave way. The engine and mail and baggage cars went down with a crash, but to coaches stopped at the edge of the fire. The heddy frightened bassengers elimbed out and pushed that part of the train which romained on the track back out of reach of the flames. The mail and baggage cars were soon burned to askes. The passengers were much frightened, but escaped unhurt. About half the trestle was destroyed, but the damage will be repaired and trains running through before midnight.

LABOR CONSOLIDATING,

Three Societies Frame a Constitution Fo Their Guidance. Chicago, June 7.—A new and important factor in railway labor circles was created last evening, when nine delegates assembled in this city, finished and ratified a constitution for the future government of three of the important railway employes' associations, which are thereby federated in one body, to be known as the United Order of Railway Employes. The constitution as adopted is the work of a three days conference and without further ratification by separate bodies, it creates the new order. The delegates framing it represented the Brotherhood of Railway Brakenen, Switchmen's Matual Aid association, and Brotherhood of Lohood of Kallway Brakemen, Switchmen's Mu-tual Aid association, and Brotherhood of Lo-cometive Firemen, which associations are fused into the new order. The governing body will be the supreme council, of which the following are officers and members: President, W. B. Sacragat, grand members: President, following are officers and members: President, W. P. Sargeant, grand master of the Locomotive Brotherhood of Firemen, of Terre Haute, Ind; vice-president, Frank Sweenie, grand master of Switchmen's Mutual Aid association, of Chicago; secretary and treasurer, Ed F. O'Shea, secretary and treasurer of the Brotherhood of Railway Brakemen, Galesburg, Illinois. Six other members of the council are S. E. Wilkinson, of Peoria, and W. G. Edens, of Ohio, for the brakemen; E. B. Debbs, of Indiana, and J. J. Hannahan, of Chicago, for the diana, and J. J. Hannahan, of Chicago, for the firemen; G. W. Hall and W. E. The Secret Ballot Bill Vetoed.

HARTFORD, Cohn.. June 7.—Governor Buckely today vetoed the bill providing for the secret ballot. He holds that the bill is too radical, too cumbersome in its details, too expensive, opens the door to fraud and will result in disfranchising voters. The house passed the bill over the governor's veto by a vote of 121 to 83. This was done under the previous question, with no opportunity for dispussion. After the vote was declared Mr. Brandegee protested against the discourtesy to the governor, and moved to reconsider. The bill was reconsidered and tabled, and the bouse adjourned until Towards.

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., June 7,-"Are the horrors of blood to give way to the terrors of a plagne," is the question that is now agitating the valley of Conemaugh. Today opened warm and almost sultry, and the stench that assails one's senses as he wanders through Johnstown is almost overpowering. Sickness. in spite of precations and herculean labors of the sanitary authorities, is on the increase and fears of an epidemic grow with every hour.
"It is our impression," said Dr. T. S. White, assistant to the state board of health, this merning, "that there is going to be great sickness here within the next week. Five cases of malignant diphtheria were located this merning on Bedford street, and as they were in different houses they mean five STARTING POINTS OF DISEASE.

is not exaggerated, as many suppose, but is founded on experience. There will be plenty of typhoid fever and kindred diseases here within a week or ten days, in my opin-ion. The only thing that has saved us thus far has been cold weather. That has now given place to summer weather, and no one knows what the next few days may bring forth. Even among the workmen and attendants there is already discernable a great tendency to diarrhea and discernable a great tendency to diarrhea and dysentery, the men living principally upon salt meat, and there is a lack of vegetables. I have been here since Sunday and have tasted fresh meat but once since, and I am only one of many. Of course the worst has passed for the physicians, as our arrangements are now perfected and each corps will be relieved from time to time. Twenty more physicians arrived from Pittsburg this morning, and many of us will be relieved today, but the opinion is general among medical men that

TWO MORE CASES OF TYPHOID. Two additional cases of typhoid fever are reported this morning from Minersdale, making a total of seven in that village alone since yesterday morning. The measles are also be-coming considerably provalent on Prospect hill, where a refugees camp is established. B. F. Minnimum, a wealthy contractor of Springr. Soveral varieads of clothing arrived this morning, which was to be disposed of as soon as possible. The people are badly in need of clothing, as the weather has been very chilly since Saturday. The number of people missing from Woodville is almost incredible, and from present indications it looks as if only from present indications it looks as if only about fifty people of the borough were saved.

SHE WAS NOT DEAD.

Mrs. H. L. Peterson, who has been a resident of Woodville for a number of years, is one of the survivors. While looking for Miss Paulson, of Pittsburg, one of the drowned, she came to a coffin which was marked, "Mrs. H. This was quite an accurate description of Mrs. Peterson. She tore the card from the coffin, and one of the officers was about to arrest her, but her explanations were satisfactory, and she was selected. I stayed until 3:30 o'clock, when the water companyon to his convenement of the said water commenced to rise very rapidly, and I thought it was best to go to the hills."

Line repairers are badly needed to help in removing the wires, and Kirk says that as soon as they are gone he will hustle the debris through by the acre. The Western Union telegraph officials have been asked to send experienced linemen to help in the work.

The problem of the hour is the disposal of the debris above the Pennsylvania railroad bridge. Unless it is soon got rid of, the stench will be so overpowering that no human being can withstand it.

Within a few minutes we had received notification of perhaps a hundred orphan children, and as the press was kind enough to send out our addresses, we were within a few hours more on the receipt of offers from all over the country to take charge of some of the little ones. In many cases children reported to us have subsequently had their little hearts gladdened by the sudden apparation of a mother or father, who after all was not lost in the flood, but had found friendly refuge on the river miles below. From Cleveland, Indianapolis, Pittsburg, and in fact throughout all Pennsylvania and the eastern states we have received telegrams from societies and families offering to take charge of certain numbers of the little ones. We received through the mayor of New York a message from the Leaks & Watts orphanage, in New York city, offering to receive twenty-five of the orphan children. Of course we gladiy accepted the offer. EXAMINING THE DAM.

An Engineer Makes His Report-A Poorly Constructed Affair.

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., June 7.-A. M. Wellington, with F. P. Burt, associate editor of the Engineers' News, of New York, has just com-pleted an examination of the dam which pleted an examination of the dam which caused the great disaster here. Mr. Wellington states that the dam was in every respect of very inferior construction, and of a kind wholly unwarranted by the good engineering practices of thirty years ago. Both the original and reconstructed dams were of earth only, with no heart wall, but only restrapped on the slopes. The original dam, however, was made in rammed and watered layers, which still show distinctly in the wrecked dam, and greatly added to it stability, but it was to all appearances simply dumped in like an ordinary railroad fill, or, if rammed, shows no evidence of good effect from it. Much of the old part is standing intact, while adjacent parts of the new work are wholly carried off. There was no central wall of the puddle or masonry either in the new or old dam. It has been the either in the new or old dam. It has been the nivariable practice of engineers for thirty or forty years to use one or the other in building high dams of earth. It is doubtful if there is a single other dam or reservoir in any other part of the United States of over fifty feet high which lacks this central wall. The reserve tracked dear been preserved. constructed dam also bears marks of great ig norance or carelessness in having been made nearly two feet lower in the middle than at the nearly two lect lower in the middle than at the ends. It should rather have created in the middle, which would have concentrated the overflow if it should have occurred at the ends instead of in the center. Had the break began at the ends the cut of water would have been so gradual that little or no harm might have resulted. Had the dam been at once cut at the ends when the water began running over the center the sudden breaking would have been at least greatly diminished, possibly prolonged, so that little harm would have resulted. The crest of the old dam had not been raised in the reconstruction of 1881. The old overflow channel through the rock still remains, but, owing to the sag of the crest of remains, but, owing to the sag of the crest of the middle of the dam, only five and a half feet of water in it instead of seven feet was feet of water in it instead of seven feet was necessary to run the water over the crest and the rock spillway, narrow at the best, had been further contracted by a close grating to prevent the escape of fish, capped by a good sized timer, and in some slight degree also by a trestle foot bridge. The original discharge pipes at the toot of the dam had been permanently closed when reconstructed and this pipes at the foot of the dam had been perma-nently closed when reconstructed, and this, while a minor matter compared to others mentioned, further reduced the possible rate of the maximum discharge.

Mr. Wellington said no engineer of known and good standing for such work could possibly have been engaged on it, since in the particu-lars mentioned it violated the most universally suchested requirements of good warding. understood requirements of good practice. He did not believe that any other dam of equal height had ever been constructed in this country wholly of earth without some kind of special protection against the leakage of water in the center of the dam.

Estimates of the original dam indicate that it was made of about half earth and half rock. out, if so, there was little evidence of it in the The fact that the dam was a reconstructed

CHARLESTON, June 7 .- [Special.]-The re-

It was on the night of August 31st, 1886. In a ittle park not over 300 feet square were gath-UPWARDS OF 500 FUGITIVES.

They had fled, terror stricken from their crumbling homes, and as they sat on the grass and the earth ways sailed made them they filled the air. waves rolled under them they filled the air with their groans and shrieks. As the long night wore on and the intervals between the nocks were lengthened, the little settlement began to quiet down; the children and, in some cases, their methers, worn out by fatigue and terror, gradually dozed into brief unconsciousness. A group of persons which occu-pied what had once been a rose bed, however, kept up an incessant shouting and praying, which was gious orgies which are so often seen at colored camp meetings in the south.

Finally the shouting and the shricking, the howling and yelling became so boisterous that the entire camp was aroused, and the frail white women and children, who had become quiet, were again thrown into a panicky state.

At this time two or three white men who had their wives and children on the park, went to the group to endgavor to quiet the people. They naturally thought the singers and shouters were negroes. To their surprise and astonishment, they found that this burly, black, blaspheming exhorter was surrouspers by whithe women.

this burly, black, blaspheming exhorter was SURROUNDED BY WHITE WOMEN, and white women who claimed to belong to the respectable classes of the community. When the gentlemen attempted to hustle the exhorter from the park, or to force him to conduct the praying and singing decently and in order, these white women interposed, and said that the negro had been praying and shrieking at their request. He was forced from the park, however, but returned the following night, and this time with such a reinforcement of his own race that the white people were gradually driven to other places of refuge, and within two days after the great shock the park was given up entirely to the negroes. to the negroes.

THE WHITE WOMEN REFERRED TO THE WHITE WOMEN REFERRED TO herein were certainly ranked among the respectable classes in the community, and yet they begged that negro, who would not have dared, funder ordinary feircumstances, to approach fifty yards between the wind and their nobility to pray for them, and seemed to derive considerable consolation from his horrible and blaspheming ravings. Does a superior race elevate an inferior race, or does an inferior race drag down to its own level a superior race?

John Feaster and Charles Colston Executed

in South Carolina. COLUMBIA, S. C., June 7 .- [Special.] - John Feaster and Charles Colston, both colored, were hanged at Yorkville, this state, today for the murder of W. C. Abernathy, a merchant. They ascended the scaffold at a quarter to twelve o'clock. After the reading of the death warrant and the usual religious exercises, in which both the condemned men par-ticipated with much fervor, they were asked if they had anything to say. Both Colston was very nervous and supported himself on the scaffold before his arms were scaffold before his arms were pinioned, he holding to the fatal rope dangling beside him. Feaster was remarkably cool and self-possessed throughout. The drop fell at three minutes to twelve, and twenty-three minutes afterwards the bedies were cut down. The Story of the Crime.

On the night of January 25th last, W. C. Abernathy, a merchant at Catawba Junction, York county, was sitting in his store after York county, was sitting in his store after supper, as was his custom, his residence being only a short distance from the store. John Feaster and Charles Colston went into the store, ostensibly to make some purchases, and found their victim sitting by the stove reading a newspaper. Some heavy swingletrees were lying upon a box near, and just behind Mr. Abernathy, with one of which he was KNOCKED SENSELESS AT THE FIRST BLOW. The murderers then proceeded to rob the money drawer, but their victim was beginning to show signs of returning consciousness, when he was again struck. They then became fright-ened and ran off. This occurred between 8 and 9 o'clock. About 11 o'clock Mrs.

Abernathy heard some one groaning near the front door, whereupon she got up, and went out, to find her husband she got up, and went out, to find her husband lying there in a dying condition, where he had wandered and fallen in his delirious state. He lingered for some days, and died without ever regaining consciousness. The crime for some time remained a mystery. At last suspicion pointed to Charles McManus as the last party who had been seen around the store. He was arrested and lodged in jail. Ten days or two weeks later John Feaster and Charles Colston were arrested. The latter were arrested. The latter

Some weeks after their committent the sheriff was informed that an attempt would be made to lynch them, whereupon they were taken to Columbia for safe keeping. While in the Columbia jail they confessed their crime to a fellow prisoner. At the April term of the Columbia jail they confessed their crime to a fellow prisoner. At the April term of the court they were taken back to Yorkville for trial under a strong military escort. The party to whom the confession was made in Columbia was the principal witness against them. The testimony adduced proved conclusively the innocence of Charles McManus, and no verdict was asked for account him. The invalent was asked for account him. against him. The jury after remaining out five minutes, brought in a verdict of guilty as to Feaster and Colston, whereupon they were sentenced to be hanged today.

The Inquiry Into the Murder of Dr. Croning

CHICAGO, June 7.—When the Cronin inquest was resumed this morning the name of John F. Beggs, chief officer of the Clau-na-Gael camp, of which Dr. Cronin was a member, was called but he did not respond. It was subsequently found that his office was closed and that there was a sign on the door to the effect that he had gone to Wisconsin to be gone several days. Mike Whalen, a detective, and Peter McGeeban, who were expected to testify today were also conspicuous by their absence at the opening. Policeman Daniel Brown, the the opening. Policeman Daniel Brown, the man who preferred the charges of treason against Dr. Cronin in Clan-na-Gael camp, No. 20, took the stand and testified that he preferred the charges on his own motion and not at anybody's instigation. At the close of his testimony he was detained by the chief of police and taken to the central station.

Brown was confronted with Mrs. Conklin, the livery stable keeper, Dinan and others, but they all declared that he was not the man who drove the white horse, and he was accordingly released from custody.

LUKE DILLON ON THE STAND.

At the opening of the afternoon session,
Luke Dillon, of Philadelphia, who has been there for some time as a representative of Dr. Cronin's friends, took the witness chair. He testified, that Cronin had frequently said to him that he believed that to further his ambihim that he believed that to further his ambition to rule American and Irish politics Sullivad would murder him (Cronin.) Mr. Dillon then told of the trial at Buffaio of the charges against Alexander Sullivan, Boland and Dennis Feeley. These charges were made by John Devoy, and were of the the misappropriation of Clan-na-Gael funds. Witness said that when Sullivan learned that Cronin was to be a member of the trial committee he denounced him in unmeasured terms. Witness said, after the trial, it was voted to allow Sullivan to circulate with the finding of trial committee a protest which he had propared.

SULLIVAN'S OBJECTIONS TO CRONIN.

Dillon then proceeded to read the protest.

Dillon then proceeded to read the protest.

It was a very long document, dated New York,
September 15, 1888, and was addressed to P.
O. Boyle, secretary. In it Sullivan protested against the presence of Cronin as a member of the committee of investigation; in New York and Buffalo, on the grounds—first, he was his personal enemy; second, that he had expressed an opinion on the case; third, that he was a an opinion on the case; third, that he was a perjurer and scoundrel, unfit to be placed on any jury. In support of his first objection he appealed to members of the United Brotherhood organization in Chicago from which Cronin was expelled in a case where he (Sullivan) conducted the prosecution. There was no question in Chicago of CRONIN'S HOSTILITY TO HIM or any one who was present at the meeting of the National League committee in 1886, when Dr. Cronin assailed him. In regard to this enmity, Sullivan claimed in the circular that it was unnecesiary for him to enlarge upon it. In regard to the second objection, he said it was unlecessary for him to notice the fact that he was a member of the executive body of the United Brotherhood who had formulated the charges against him; that he had expressed an opinion in the case and would not be accepted as a juror in any civil case in which Sullivan had anything to do.

In support of the third reason Sullivan want which Sullivan had anything to do.

In support of the third reason, Sullivan went into a long history of Cronin's career, accusing him of being a perjurer and British spy, who had taken the oath of allegiance to her British majesty and that he had sworn falsely in regard to the election of the delegates of the Chicago district to the convention; that he had sworn falsely in regard to his American citizenship, his age and various other matters. The circular ended by reiterating the protest against Cronin acting on the trial committee.

reiterating the protest against Cronin acting on the trial committee.

Witness continued: "In June, 1882, John Devoy said that $300,000 and over was in the hands of the "triangle," and over $18,000 had been spent in violation of the constitution. This $30,000 does not include $100,000 given to Sullivan by Patrick Egan, I know nothing about that. The funds of the organization was supposed to be used in the case of England getting into difficulty and to assist Ireland in getting her liberty. There is nothing in the getting her liberty. There is nothing in the constitution requiring a man to sacrifice his life for the order."

After spending many hundreds of dollars, I was pronounced incurable. I heard of the Cuticura Remedies, and after using two bottles Cuticura Resolvent, I could see a change; and after I had taken four bottles, I was almost cured; and when I had used six bottles of CUTICURA RESOLVENT and one box of CUTICURA, and one cake of CUTICURA SOAP, I was cured of the dreadful disease from which I had suffered for five years. I thought the disease would leave a very deep sear, but the CUTICURA REMEDIES cured it without any sears. I cannot express with a pen what I suffered before using the CUTICURA REMEDIES. They saved my life, and I feel it my duty to recommend them. My hair is restored as good as ever, and so is my eyesight. I know of a number of different persons who have used the CUTICURA REVIDIUS, and all have received great benefit from their use.

Mrs. ROSA KELLY, Rockweil City, Calhoun Co., Iowa.

I cannot say enough in praise of the CUTICURA REMEDIES. My boy, when one year of age, was so bad with eczema that he lost all of his hair. His scalp was covered with eruptions, which the cloctor said was scald head, and that his hair would never grow again. Despairing of a cure from physicians, I began the use of the Cuticuma Remedies, and, I am happy to say, with the most perfect success. His hair is now splendid, and there is not a pimple on him. I recommend the Cuticuma Remedies to mothers as the most speedy, economical, and sure cure for all skin diseases of infants and children, and MRS. M. E. WOODSUM, Norway, Me.

Cuticura Remedies

For cleansing, purifying, and beautifying the skin and scalp and curing every species of agonizing, humiliating, itching, burning, scaly, and pimply diseases of the SKIN, SCALP, AND BLOOD, and humors, blotches, cruptions, sores, scales, crusts, ulcerations, swellings, abscesses, tumors, and loss of hair, whether simple, scrofulous, or contagious, the CUTICURA REMEDIES are simply infallible.

CUTICURA, the great skin cure, instantly allays the most agonizing itching and inflammation, clears the skin and scalp of every trace of disease, heals ulcers and sores, removes crusts and scales, and restores the hair. CUTICURA SOAF, the greatest of skin beautifiers, is indispensable in treating skin diseases and baby humors. It produces the whitest, clearest skin and softest hands, free from pimple, spot, or blemish. CUTICURA RESOLVENT, the new blood purifier, cleanses the blood of all impurities and poisonous elements, and thus removes the CAUSE. Hence the CUTICURA REMEDIES are the only infallible curatives for every form of skin and blood disease, from pimples to scrofula. Price: CUTICURA, 50 cents per box; CUTICURA SOAP, 25 cents; CUTICURA RESOLVENT, $1.00 per bottle. Prepared by the POTTER DRUG AND CHEMICAL CORPORATION, Boston, Mass.

PIM PILES, black-heads, red, rough, chapped, and oily skin prevented by CUTICURA SOAP.

HANDS Soft, white, and free from chaps and redness, by using CUTICURA SOAP.

Tennessee, and built a forge to manufacture iron.

In Carter county the one he found and undertook to work resulted in the discovery of the famous Ducktown copper mines. While there he married Mrs.

Mary E. Taylor, a widow with three children, two girls and a boy. He reared a small family by her. She was a descendant of the notorious Lynch family, which gave rise to lynch law. She was the mother of three children by Mr. Dugger; two boys and one girl.

Jasper, the oldest boy, resides in Gordon county, Ga. Newt, the youngest, died eight years ago in Fannin county. Zilpha Ann, the daughter, is a noted dagerrean artist, she has been twice married. Her first husband, Herbert Kikor, was killed

Ducktown he joined the Baptist church and was a consistent member for years. At last, one Sunday he took a hunt with some boys. They killed a fine buck and brought him in for a feast. They cooked and ate and were merry, but lo! and at the next meeting the Rev. Mr. Chadwick preferred charges against him, and appointed a committee to talk to him about it. The conference came to no agreement. They therefore cited him to trial, at which he did not appear.

a cripple of it. Jack Fain was courting a girl in the Dugger neighborhood. Her folks objected. He had to pick his chances to see her. She was to meet him at a neighbor's house one night. Jack statted to meet her. It was betwirt sundown and dark. She saw Jack in the road before her, but did not recognize him, and be-lleving him to be a runaway negro, she ran back and gave the alarm to her father and Duggar who happened to be there. They started with Catch and other bounds to capture the negro, as they thought. The dogs took the track; all night long they run him, over hills and mountains, through briar thickets and fields trying to catch him. He ran the creeks and branches trying to dodge the dogs, but Unele Ben would fetch a whoop stud Catch would circle and start him again. When Jack was event-ually run in the next morning, his disgust can better be imagined than described.

At another time Uncle Ben went deer hunting one night. Their method was to shine the deer's eyes with a lightwood torch. They soon observed two glittering eyes. Uncle Ben ordered the boys to fire. Bang! went the gun. Down it came! "A five anag buck," exclaimed Dugger. But imagine their mortification when they got to it and found not a "five surg" buck, but an old horse in his death threes. Their hunt then came to an untimely end.

On another occasion he, in company with John Witzel and others, went to Frog mountain or a hunting expedition. After kiling a number of turkeys and squirrels, and pickin sup several bushels of chestnuts, a fire was built to cook some of their game. Dugger's beard was about two weeks old. He had been eating chestnuts all day, and fragments of them had worked down into his beard. Supper was announced, Cups were scarce. Dugger suggested to Witzel that they drink from the same cup. John declined for sous best known to himself.

The Gainesville Eagle says that a young man named James McEver, who resides in the neighbor-berhood of Thompson's Mills, Hall county, was met in the read, a short distance from that place, last Saturday evening, by two boys, aged about four-teen, one of whom was Isham Davis, son of Rev.

William Davis, and the other named Howington, a son of Mr. John Howington. Young Howington had a shotgun on his shoulder, and when within some ten or fifteen steps of McEver, young Davis snatched the gun from his companion, presented it at McEver and ordered him to surrender, who immediately responded, "I surrender!" but scarce had the words escaped his lips ere the gun was dis-

Charged, filling the young man's legs from his knees down with bird shot. The boys then left McEver prostrate in the road and went on to the store, but said nothing of the matter on their arrival. After the violent shock had somewhat passed off, the wounded man managed to drag himself back to the store and reported the matter. He was taken to his home, and when lost heard from was suffering very much, but it is hoped that the wounds will not prove serious. The youth who did the shooting says he only pointed the gun at McEver in fun, and did not intend to shoot him, but does not appear to be much disturbed about the matter.

PERRY, Ga., June 7 .- [Special.]-The second day of the fifth trial of Thomas George Woolfolk for murder began this morning at 8:27. Nearly everyone seemed to expect that the jary would be secured, therefore the crowd and interest was largely augmented. The prisoner was brought in a few minutes before court opened, and received from his lady relatives their usual affectionate salutation, and offering of flowers and fruit. Tom appeared to be in good spirits, and the countenance of some of the relatives indicated dissatisfaction at the progress being made with the five jurors ted and sworn, and 169 answering to the call of the clerk. THE ADDITIONAL JURYMEN NEEDED went briskly on. The first man went off for cause, and then D. D. Bateman, foreman of the Home Journal, was called up. He qualified, but the defense decided to question him in detail concerning his competency. This being denied, Bateman was put on the triors. The editor of the Journal was put on the stand and a file of the paper brought into court. An effort was made to connect Bateman with the editorials published unfavorable to the innocence of Woolfolk at the time of the transfer of the country of the country of the transfer of the trans the tragedy and the first trial. Since that time I have had no return of the rheumatio troubles, although frequently exposed to the influences that produced former attacks. Several of my friends had a similar experience, and are firm in their conviction that S. S. S. brought a permanent cure. The searching power of this medicine is cure. The searching power of this medicine is shown in the fact that it developed a scroulous taint that was complicated in my blood over thirty years ago, and has removed the last frace of it. I have also tested 8. ATLANTA, GA., JUNE 8, 1889.

A Chance for Atlanta. In our advertising columns will be found an announcement that is of very great interest to the people of Atlanta. It rarely happens that an advertisement receives editorial notice in these columns, but this one is so important to Atlanta that we cannot refrain from calling attention to

It is the advertisement of the Patterson Mill's company, of Chester, Pennsylvania, a concern which has a paid in capital of $250,-000. The company proposes to furnish all the machinery for a cotton-spinning mill of 10,000 spindles, to be located at any good point in the south, and take stock in the mill for the whole of the machinery. Now here is a chance for Atlanta to secure an important manufacturing enterprise on very easy terms, and we commend the matter to the attention of the chamber of commerce and the Manufacturers' asso-

Such opportunities do not offer themselves every day, and it is to be hoped that those citizens, whose energy and sagacity have made Atlanta's enterprise famous the country over, will seize the occasion by the foretop, so to speak, and secure to Atlanta this cotton mill.

From the first the concern will be managed by experts and business men, and the advantages that Atlanta offers will make the mill a success from the beginning.

Mr. John Stephens, to whom the advertisement was shown, says that he will give the new enterprise a site to build on, with as much ground for other purposes as may be necessary, with a railroad front, all in the city limits. He will put a cash price on this property, and take the entire amount in stock. Furthermore, he says he will build a private track to the mill at his own expense. This proposition ought to serve as a very fine starter to any action our citizens propose to take.

And whatever action is taken ought to be taken at once.

A Bad State of Affairs.

Unless the white people of Gretna, Louislana, find some peaceful remedy for repub? lican misrule there will be trouble.

The New Orleans Picayune gives us a clear idea of the situation. Gretna is a suburb of New Orleans. It is in a republican parish, and is controlled by republican officials, many of them being negroes.

For sometime past the negroes have been turbulent and aggressive, perpetrating daily outrages upon the whites. They could not be arrested and punished, because the officers shielded them. Finally they threatened to burn the town. Then a number of the best white citizens formed a committee of public order.

who had winked at the conduct of the lawless negroes, came forward and arrested the whites who were trying to maintain the cause of law and order, and charged them with a conspiracy to overthrow the authorities of the parish. After the arrest the citizens held a public meeting and denounced the action of the sheriff.

These are the facts of the case. The white people of Gretna-the men who own the town and pay the taxes-are at the mercy of a negro republican mob backed by white and black republican officials. Such a state of affairs is calculated to breed trouble, and if it existed in Massachusetts, good citizens would organize as promptly for self-protection as they have done in Louis-

In some localities situated like Gretna serious difficulty has been avoided by special acts of the legislature empowering the governor to appoint the officials instead of running the risk of having them elected by ignorant and vicious majorities. Perhaps some of the Louisiana parishes would do well to follow their ex ample.

The Nashville Earthquake.

The earthquake in Nashville, last Wednesday night, has not received its due share of attention.

Two distinct shocks were felt at half-past eight o'clock. The wave ran from the outheast to the northwest. In some of the buildings the fright of the inmates was so great that they fled to the streets.

It is generally conceded that the disturbance was as violent as the shock felt in Nashville at the time of the great Charleston earthquake. Strong men were so much affected that they experienced a feeling of

In the heart of the city the earthquake was not felt. It seems to have been confined to South and East Nashville.

A Controversy in the Air.

A controversy has been going on between the New York World and one of its sonthern exchanges in regard to the constitutionality of pensions to the confederate veterans by the southern states.

The World holds that it would be unconstitutional for any southern state to pension ex-confederate soldiers, and quotes the fourteenth amendment to the constitution

The southern paper maintains that it would not be unconstitutional, and quotes the same amendment to prove its position. On the whole, the World's southern exchange has much the best of the argument, for the reason that a pension does not fall under the head of a debt or an obligationthat is to say, a legal obligation, such as is contemplated in the fourteenth amend-

But the whole discussion is in the air. The southern states will pension the exdufederate soldiers if they want to, and bare will be nobody to say them pay.

soldiers by a legislative appropriation to supply them with artificial limbs or money, and by a popular subscription to provide the veterans with a homey which, when completed, will be indorsed and supported by the state.

Furthermore, when Georgia gets ready to pension her old soldiers by making an appropriation of money she will proceed to do so, and no constitutional question will be raised about it.

A Literary Chestnut.

Twice within the past few months the fresh young men who furnish the literary flub dub for the great northern dailies have informed their readers that Dumas was not the real author of "Monte Cristo."

There is no objection to the publication of this item, but well-informed readers will protest when it is announced as a recent discovery.

It has long been known in the literary world that Dumas had the assistance of able writers. As far back as 1846 Auguste Maquet published the fact to the world that he was the author of many of the best works credited to Dumas, and the latter very honorably admitted it in the most public manner. It may interest some of our readers to learn that among the Dumas novels in the writing of which the principal share of the honors are due Maquet may be mentioned, "The Three Guardsmen," Years After," "Bragelonne," "Monte Cristo' and "Joseph Balsamo." All this was known to the reading world more than forty years ago. It is even on record in the encyclopedias-books within easy reach of the editors who have recently published the old story and paid for it as a brand-new discovery.

Of course, it makes no difference to us now who wrote these novels. We have the stories, and that is enough for us.

In New York the people are trying to get up a "caterpillar day," when everybody will turn out and destroy these pests. Such cooperation as this has the appearance of non-sense. Let every man kill his own caterpillars.

AT THE RECENT Medico-Legal congress in New York Dr. O'Neill read a paper on "Suicide," in which he argued that a man who attempts suicide should not be published by the authorities. He said: 'The desire to do away with one's self, he said, rises from great distress, calamity or disappointent. Is not one's cup of bitterness sufficiently full without adding to his miscry by the law stepping in and putting him in prison? If a man resolves to kill himself to escape real or fanciful troubles, the knowledge of the law will not deter him."

ABOUT TWO WEEKS ago the Rev. L. S. No legiss lation reaches the question. * * Yet all raiload officers know that there is no necessity for the great slaughter of brakemen." A Card From Mayor Glenn. ATLANTA, Ga., June 7th, 1889 .- To THE CONSTITUTION: In the proceedings of the board education, published in your paper this morning our reporter puts me in a false light which I desi o correct by stating exactly what I proposed and what was done by the board. The resolution I introduced was as follows:

"Resolved, That at the graduating exercises of the Girls' High school the graduates be required to wear white muslin dresses without ornament, and that no bouquets or baskets of flowers be allowed to he sent on the stage."

And my reasons for introducing it were to avoid favoritism and to prevent discrimination. For the past five years I have attended as a member of the board of education these exercises held at the opera house, and I am satisfied that it would be best for the school, for the pupils, and for the public to enforce the rule which my resolution proposes. I I have seen as many as a dozen bouquets and bas kets of flowers sent on the stage to one girl, while another at her side equally meritoricus, received none. She had as many friends, but they did not not believe that any one would object to his dangle ter appearing in a simple white muslin dress, and it is a dress that all can obtain.

I did not withdraw this resolution, as stated by your reporter, and it would have been adopted i the superintendent had not stated that the dresse were all prepared, and the resolution was then referred to the committee on rules to report a rule embodying it for the future. Respectfully, JNO. T. GLENN.

A PORTER'S NEGLIGENCE.

Damages Awarded a Pullman Car Passenge for Lost Clothing.

From the St. Louis Post-Dispatch The responsibilities of rallroads, and their liabilities to passengers for loss of goods, enters in a decision rendered by Judge Fisher this morning n a rather humorous case. Dr. T. A. Gordon an A. K. Florida, a real estate broker doing business in this city, engaged a lower berth in a Pullman car in August, 1888, bound for Jacksonville, Mo. When the gentlemen retired they placed their clothes in the upper borth and went to sleep. At 3 o'clock in the morning they were awakened by the porter in time to get up and dress and be ready to leave the rain at Ja cksonville. On looking for their clothes they found them missing, and a search of the train failed to bring them to light. The train was rolling rapidly toward Jacksonville, and something had to be done. Dr. Gordon with great presence of mind rushed around, woke up male passengers, and after many attempts borrowed a pair of pants, Mr. Florida did the same, but could find no one who had a pair of pants to spare. The porter shouted "Jacksonville," and noth ing was left for Mr. Florida to do but to jump off the train. He was dressed in a thin, gauze under-shirt, a pair of summer drawers, a pair of shoes and a hat. In this raiment he stepped off the car and struck up a rapid gait for his home, half a mile from the depot. It was 4 o'clock in the morning, and few of the inhabitants of Jacksonville were astir. The dew was heavy on the grass, and when Mr. Florida reached home he had a cold which lasted a week. He had lost his suit, worth $25, a set of teeth worth $25, an abstract of real estate worth $25, a pair of gloves worth $1.75, a knife worth $1, and $17 in cash. As he never heard from hem again, he entered suit against the company for $94 75 for loss of goods and $100 damages. He charged the company's employes with negligence in not watching his clothes, and the company claimed Florida was guilty of contributory negl gence in placing his clothes and valuables in a berth he had not paid for, and was no mere entitled to recover than he would be if at a hotel he placed his clothes and property in a room next to his which he had not paid for. Judge Fisher was of he opinion that the porter should have been more careful, and know who got on and off the car. He enders judgment for Mr. Florida for $82.15, and-allows him nothing for his lost time or cold.

from the New York Graphic. I saw yesterday a private letter from an American elergyman, who is just now visiting in England, and who has been cultivating Spurgeon. What he said rather anused me, though he was in-nocent of any intention of being amusing, and I copied off a page or so. "As we rassed the porter's codge and caught sight of this home of the great preacher," wrote the preacher, "we were filled with astonishment to find that he lived in such magnifi-cence; the park was adorned with statuary, and varied with lakes and streams. We could see a fine conservatory, which we afterward found to be full of care plants." This description continues at length, including details about the stables, which the visitor thinks are as fine in arrangement and appoint ments as the royal ones at Windsor, and he does no ments as the royal ones at window, and the does no omit to mention the coachman in livery. Then he says I did not ask him why he was living in such princely style, for it was none of my busi-ness, besides I was sincerely pleased to see ti at the Lord had surrounded His busy and self sacrificing ervant with so many comforts, but it came to pass n our free and unrestrained that he broached the and said it caused him some anxiety. He collained that he had never cared for such things. He told me that years ago, when he built his tabernacle, he bought for numself a house with some ground attached, and while he slept that property grew to be very valuable, so valuable ideed he was able to exchange it for his present poble estate of Beulah bill. Now Beulah hill is rapidly increasing in value and, as he explained, it seemed the best economy to hold onto it until it reaches the high water mark of value and then give it to the Lord. What he makes at Beu'ah hill goes into the treasury of the Lord. I would gladly explain how this is done, but I can only give a single illustration of what I mean. While at the tea table I was served with a glass of milk. Having a seat ear Mrs. Spurgeon, I ventured a pleasant re to her magnificent cows I'd seen in the pasture. "Not mine," she said: "they belong to our divine Lord and I keep them for him. All the milk which they give is sold and the money put into His treasury, and even that milk you are drinking has been paid for."

Electricity Does Not Hurt.

From the Detroit Free Press.

In view of the fact that the approaching execution by electricity of Kemmler, the Buffalo murderer, is a theme of general interest, both among humanitarians and the great public, who await with interest the result of this untried innovation, the experience of an electric light employe Virginia City, Nev., cannot fail to be interesting Henry Faull received a shock from which he re mained unconscious for fifteen minutes, during which time his heart showed no signs of pulsation. The palm was burned where he held the wire. The urrent passed down through the right side of his body, leaving no mark save where it left the foot, the toes of which were scorched black. Faull gives the following account of his sensations:

After grasping the wire he was immediately drawn upward with unresistible force and endeay-ored to shout for aid, but, although another work-man was but three feet distant, his voice was not audible. Although suspended by his hands, with his toes resting on the boiler plate floor for scarcely a second, Faud says it appeared to him that he was in that position several minutes. He felt no pain whatever. This is the last he remembers until restored to conscio

From the New York Sun. Our esteemed contemporary, the Theatre reports that when Thackeray visited this country Henry Watterson was presented to him, "and they saw much of each other." One evening, in a dis-cussion of music and of the relative beauties of certain masterpieces. Watterson struck the keys of the piano, and idelighted Thackeray so that he got the young Kentuckian to play all night. Now, Thackeray was in this country in 1852, and again in the winter of 1855. At his first visit Watterson was twelve years old; at his second he was fifteen; and it is doubtful whether at that early age his playing was sufficiently developed to entertain through a whole night such an old stager and critic as Thacks

Some of the Great Floods of History

From the St. Louis Globe Democrat. It becomes interesting to note some of the It becomes interesting to note some of the great floods of history. One of the most notable was that which, according to the old Historian Camden, washed away Earl Godwin's land on the coast of Kent, and left only the Godwin Sanda. Holland has furnished many a coast flood. At Dort, in 1446, the sea broke in through the dykes and drowned the people of seventy-two villages, in all 100,000 persons. The dykes failed in 1539 and neury 400,000 people died, The celebrated Ripon flood in Yorkshire was in 1711, and in 1787 over 2000 persons. Yorkshire was in 1771, and in 1787 over 2000 persons lost their lives by the sudden torrents from the mountains of Navarra. In 1813 the overflow of the Danube drowned 300) Turkish soldiers on a small island near Widden, and in Silesia the floods prac tically ruined the French army under MacDouald The Vistula overflowed and broke its dykes in 1812 and swept away 10,000 cattle and 4000 houses.

Two famous floods in France were those of 1840 and 1846. The former was in the southeast, and upward of 1,000 houses were swept away by the Rhone. The other was in the central and southwestern part of France, and destroyed $20,000,000 worth of property, including numerous costly rail-

Spain, twenty square leagues were devastated, and over 1,000 persons drowned. April 14, 1802. The property damage was estimated at $7,000,000. The giving way of the dam of the Bradfield reservoir near Sheffield, England, on March 11, 1864, let loose a flood which swept fourteen miles of valley in two hours and caused a loss of $1,800,000, besides drowning 250 persons. This is the disaster which is made to figure in Charles Read's "Put Yourselt in His Place." The area of the Bradford reservoir was seventy-eight acres, and its dam at the highest place was 95 feet high.

This reservoir had an area of over 2 800 acres, and its waters, when freed from confinement, devastated an area of hundreds of square miles.

General Lawton, of Georgia.

When General Lawton, about a year ago, was presented to the duke of Cambridge with the remark that he "had fought valiantly, tho" on the wrong side," bis royal highness said: "Never mind what side it was on, so long as one fights bravely.

and adheres loyally to one's cause."

The duke could not have better characterized the distinguished citizen of the United States, who for the last two years represented his country in Austria-Hungery, and whose departure causes s much regret in Vienna. Courage and loyalty have ever marked General Lawton's career, and com-bined with sagacity and high culture, have won for bim that public esteem which, on the other side of the Atlantic, is the only title of noblity. Genera Lawton has not alone the courage of the soldier, but what is more, the courage of his own convic-tions, which qualifies him to be a leader of men. As a soldier, General Lawton was a great admirer of deneral Lee, on whose military genius he delivered a remarkable culosy in 1871, which at the time attracted a good deal of notice. Last year the general had the sati-faction of seeing his views fully indorsed by no less an authority than Lord Wolseley in an article on "Military Genius" in the Fortnightly w. What General Lawton is as a lawyer may be judged by the fact, that prior to his appointment as minister to the court of Vienna, he was for a long time chief counsel to the largest rathway combinaion in the southern states, in which rosition he had the control over vast interests. His ideas of the character and mission of the legal profession are ad-mirably laid down in an address delivered in 1884

General Mahone's Son. From the New York Star. Butler Mahone is the eldest and only son of seneral Mahone, of Virginia. He has that small, rather pinched and peaked face so characteristic of the "little general." I saw him at the races yesterday looking and feel ing exceedingly well. He had dropped over from Washington to enjoy the sport. This young man spends most of his time at the national capital, as his father does, although neither of them has any settled business there. Butler has been sowing his share of wild oats for the past few years, but is not settling down to business, although he drives a tandem team and is in other ways a swell young man about town. His home is in Petersburg, Va. but General Mahone prefers to keep him and his interesting family in Washington, where they have a good social position, which has been denied them in Virginia for a number of years on account of the general's participation in politics.

History of a Nickel. From the Baltimore American. About a year ago some wag polished off a nickel till it only resembled the coin of the realm in size and color. After it had dropped into the bottom of a bobtail car box the driver eyed it suspictously, and evidently thinking the other side of the coin might be all right, he gave the decisive pull and let it pass. From that time to this the company has been endeavoring to get that nickel back on the rascally public. But strange to say, every man who tears open the little envelope conaining it and its companion piece always chucks the smooth nickel back into the box. Of course no driver can now complain, because the coin always comes out of the company's package. During its first year of service it has taken about two thousand one hundred and ninety trips, and as it is getting thinner and smoother all the time, there is now no hope of its ever escaping street car service except through the romantic charity of some kind deliverer, or through the final dissolution of the com-

WHAT THE COMMITTEE IS DOING ABOUT IT.

Mayor Glenn Talks About the Location of the Work at the Chattahoochee River-Superine tendent Richards's Scheme.

The council committee and the citizens committee, which went out to the Chattahoochee ri and Nance's creek last Tuesday, have not, as decided upon what recommendation they make to the general council.

City Engineer Clayton is busy gathering information and the concerning the flow of the stream and the most eligible location for the works. he has had all the necessary and the works. As s he has had all the necessary the city engineer and Mr. Rudolpa. Unerring, who has been engaged to make the plans for new works, if it is decided to build them, will go our and select the exact location for the pumping sta-

This survey and selection of site will probably be made sometime next week. As soon as it is made a report from the engineers will be submitted to the committee, who will consider it and then make whatever recommendation they think best to the Nance's creek has already been measured, and Antice's creek has already teen measured, and that measurement, which was taken about two weeks ago, during the dry spell, shows that the creek has a supply of about 16,000,00 radious per day. It is claimed that this amount is sufficient for a city of 150,000 or 175,000 people, and if the works should be built there they would hast Atlanta for many years.

But, on the other hand, even those members of people if the works were put at the river at the start.

But this involves quite a nice question," said Mayor Gienn, in speaking of this phase of the matter. "You see it is just this way. We can't tell just how far above either of these two creeks we will have to go to get the right flow, if the river is decided on. Now, the question is this Will it pay to build the works on Nance's creek and then move them to the river some time in the future? We may have to go a mile above the creek, and we may have to go a mile above the creek, and we may have to go a mile above the creek, and we have to go two or perhaps three. Now, the pipe that will have to be used costs a good deal, and if we had to buy two or three miles more than is absolutely necessary at present, the interest on the money se spont might be more than it would cost to rebuild the works at the river, ten or fifteen years from now. However, as soon as Mr. Herring finishes his surveys and neasurements we can tell exactly which course

"How about the quality of the water in the river and Nance's creek;"

"There is absolutely no perceptible difference—that is, to the eye or taste. Mr. Chyton brought a jar from each stream two weeks ago, and it is impossible to tell one from the other."

Superintendent Richards was asked what he thought of the difference in the water of Nance's creek and the Chattahoochee river, and pointing to the two jars referred to by the mayor, said:

"As far ac can be detected by the eye or taste there is no difference at all, and as you see the water of each is almost as clear as crystal. There is one thing though, which is greatly in favor of Nance's creek, and that is the water of that stream with to the a great deal quicker than that of the river. This is, of course, because the river is a much larger stream."

six or seven sections, all connecting with a center suction pipe or valve, and having valves which would break this connection whenever necessary. These six sections of the reservoir could all be pumped full except one, and while the city uses out of one, which will hold about 20,60,000 gallons, the other would be settling. This would allow the water to settle six or seven days before use, and in thatlength of time it would be as clear and pure as could be wished."

The telephone office man't been as busy since the exposition—everybody telephoned. The trouble was caused by the breaking of the main pipe of the Atlanta Gas Light company. This happened on Foundry street, a few feet from the corner of Marietta—about six hundred feet from the gasworks. The pipe was a ten-inch cast iron one, and the piping of the entire city was connected

A six inch water pipe was broken at the same place and time, and the water flowed in a torrent for nearly two hours. The gas was shut off about

The city may pay for the accident. At any rate both the gas and the water company are inclined to lump on the commissioner of public works,

This was done by the city's woramen and for the purpose of laying a About four feet from the surface the gasand water pipe run side by side. The Grand Jury Finds a True Bill Against Dr. M. T. Whitlock.

The grand jury has found a true bill against or. M. T. Whitlock.

He now stands charged with murder.

The body met Wednesday, and has been busy looking into many charges. The session day after day was interesting to the jurors, and many indictments were found. The most important and interesting, however, was that in which Dr. Whitlock has so much at stake. It will be remembered that the coroner's jury in the case of J. C. Belding, who was shot and killed in C. P. Johnson's bar on decoration day by Dr. Whitlock, failed to agree on a verdict. Part held that the killing was justifiable homicide and the part held that it was voluntary man-the armin of that it was voluntary man-chaughter.

The grand jury, however, after a careful in-quiry, has resented a true bill for murder in the last degree. The evidence before the body was voluminous and presents a stronger case than was at first supposed.

An Interesting Examination ALBANY, Ga., June 7.—[Special.]—There was an interesting examination held at Mrs A. C. Collins's school today. Misses Mabe: Lillsman and Fonda Gilbert galand the prize THE SPORTING WORLD.

The Atlantas are now playing in Chattalooga and large crowds are attending the games. The boys lost yesterday's game. Before leaving Charleston Thursday they lost a game, too.

The game, however, was won by the umpire, and not by the Charleston team. It was a rotten game, and the sea gulls are welcome to it.

It appears, from what the Charleston papers say, that the Atlanta club had to leave Charleston at six o'clock that afternoon, and in order to do so left the ball field before the game was played out.
For leaving the field the umpire awarded the game to Charleston by the usual forfeit score.
That score gave the crackers their first shut out this season.

That score gave the crackers their first shut out this season.

It seems that Manager Whalen, so the Charleston World says, dd not give the proper notice, but, notwithstanding the fact that it was understood only six immings were to be played, the umpire refused to allow the playing to stop, asserting that he had received no instructions to call the game. Whalen did not take kindly to this, and with his men left the field, boarded the train which had waited twenty minutes for them, and while the Charleston men, were discussing what to do and halting between two opinions they were spinuoing away Chattanoogaward at the rate of forty miles an bour.

The umpire insisted that he had no right to call the game, however, and so the home team got out in the field, passed nine balls over the plate, and the game was declared in favor of Charleston by the usual score of 9 to 0

Before the sixth inning, however, the playing was very "rotten" on both sides. The visitors made a run in every inning except the sixth, and Charleston scored one run in the third, and by a series of errors on the part of Atlanta made three more in the fifth, so that had the game been called as Atlanta expected it would have stood 5 to 4 in favor of Atlanta.

George Simonin's playing at short stop for Atlanta was very fine.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., June 7 .- [Special.]-

The medical association of this city tonight inaug-nrated a movement to secure the organization of a tri-state medical association, to be composed of the countles of East Tennesse, north Georgia and north Alabama. Last night's reception was in every particular brilliant. The members of the league were tireless in their efforts to make their guests feel at home, and were highly successful, as was attested by the hearty good feeling prevailing throughout the entire evening.

No special programme had been prepared for the entertainment, as it was intended that everything should be informal. During the evening, however, some delightful literary and musical selections were replaced.

Miss Motes and Miss Little gave a piano duet which was very much appreciated by all present.

It was so highly enjoyed that he was encored, and in response gave a humorous recitation, entitled, "Mary Had a Little Lamb," with variations. Mr. Sharp scored another success in this, and was liberally applauded for his enjoyable part in the vening's entertainment.

Professor Denck's piano solos were the principal features of the programme. He is one of the few pianists who can hold the interest of an audience, and to attempt a criticism of his performance would be absurd. He will also visit St. Simon's before his return and take part in the gun club contest for Georgia, Alabama and Florida, which takes place next week. Many of Atlanta's fine shots will engage in this contest.

Next Tuesday evening, at the First Methodist church, one of the most notable musical events of the season will occur. At that time the oratorio by the choir of the First Methodist church, assisted by some of the best musicians in the city, will be sung. Professor Summer Salter is at the head of the entertainment, and as he will soon leave for the north, where he will make his home in the future, he is putting forth extra efforts to make this one of the most brilliant musical events of the year. The oratorio will close with the presentation of the beautiful sacred operetta, "Rebekah," in which a number of prominent musicians will appear, loss of property, interrupted traffic even more than the blizzerd of fast year, and cuttrely changed the situation in eastern markets. The lumber, coal, from and steel trades, and producing companies of the first importance, have suddenly ceased operations, and their orders must be filled by others or delayed. The flooding of many coal mines cuts off supplies of fuel for many manufacturing works, and the stoppage of the Cambria mills and furnaces, which produces yearly over 300,000 tons of from in various forms, will effect the trade for some time. The destruction of more than forty bridges, about half of them on the Pennsylvania railroad besides many locomotives, cars and miles of track created a sudden demand which is feit in all the from and steel mills. Vast quantities of lumber have been swept away and thousands of houses and buildings must quickly be replaced, with a vast quantity of supplies and stores. It is impossible as yet to estimate the effects in the various branches of trade. But the demand for many kinds of from and steel products is already felt in a firmer tone and advancing prices. Pig from, however, does not change as yet, the production previous to the disaster having been much in excess of consumption and while some production capacity is cut off. Southern sales of pig from have been heavy at former prices, but 25,000 tons of rails have been sold and the price is firmer at $27, while structural, plate and tank and bar iron are stronger and an advance is looked for in nails.

New York and Virginia, have involved an enormous

Transactions in anthractic coal have been limited at the late advance, but the tone is stronger. Many

In dry goods, trade is fair for this time of the year, though prints are hardly equal to expectations as to the volume of business, and print cloths sell at 3%

The new demand for woolens is light, but there is a firmer feeling, and an advance is expected. Flannels are selling fairly at about auction prices. Reports from the interior show a fair volume of trade in progress, except where disasters have interrupted. In those localities business is prostrated, and many individual losses will call for the indulgencies of creditors. Eisewhere collections are on the whole rather dull.

powerful in the course of prices, and when the up-ward movement was checked the reaction follow-ing the opening was strong and active, but the bus-fnesss done was not so well distributed as during the past few days, and stocks of the regular list, outside of grangero, Pacific stocks and New England, were port of Northwestern was swallowed up in the bearish feeling caused by fires and the heavy en-gagement of gold for export by tomorrow's steam-ers. There was marked strength in Wheeling and Lake Eric, New England, Union Pacific and Oregon Short Line at the opening, but trusts were rather heavy to weak on the decision of the Missouri state secretary that the new law against trusts would be rigedly enforced. Pacific stocks and Short Line rigedly enforced. Pacific stocks and Short Line were helped by the prospect of an amicable settled ment of the Oregon National lease and other mat-ters between Union and Northern Pacifics. Selling ten between Union and Northern Pacifics. Selling began immediately, however, and before the end of the first hour prices were on the back track and most of the list was brought below their opening figures. Tannessee Coal, both common and preferred, were the only ones which retained any fair proportion of their advances. There was a spurt in Lake Shore after 12 o'clock, but this was the only appear duryement during the afternoon, and it filed to have any effect upon the rest. The presshorts and investors and there was a better tone to the list toward the close, which was quiet and fairly steady generally at slight fractions better than the lowest of the day. There was little more trading among stocks of the unlisted department other than trusts, and Brunswick led as usual. A mejority of the active stocks tonight are fractionally lower, and Atchison and St. Paul are each down I per cent, but Teunessee Coal rose 1, preferred 2 and Delaware and Hudson 1½ per cent. Sales aggregated 292,000 and Hudson 1½ per cent.

NEW YORK, June 7—The following are the total net receipts of cotton at all United States ports since September 1, 1889; Galveston. 669,917

NEW YORK, June 7.-[Special.]-Henry Clews & Co.'s circular on the cotton market today says: Though Liverpool has shown a disposition to advance, the pressure of notices for delivery on June vance, the pressure of notices for delivery on June contracts have operated against our market during the past week, and, in conjunction with the duliness occasioned in part by bad telegraph service, the market has undergone a gradual eachig off in price. While the decline has once amounted to much, it has been more pronounced in the early months, the late deliveries being favorably influenced by the continued bad crop reports. There have been general wins throughout the cotton belt. have been general rains throughout the cotton belt. but they have not been sufficient, and our advices indicate generally poor stands. The Chronicle has an exhaustive report, bringing their advices down to June 4, in which it states that the condition is better than a year ago; but our advices do not agree with this. Rain is still much needed. Spot cotton has been in good demand, especially the better grades, and full quotations are obtainable for them. The lower grades are still neglected, and large con-The quotations should be revised, and likely the committee will act on this matter next Wednesday. The Livetpool market will be closed during the Whitsuntide holidays (tomorrow, Monday and Tuesday), and during this period we will likely not have much activity, but we do not anticipate any decline? There has been a great deal of liquidation recently, a large line of weak cotton having been shaken out, and the market has apparently gotten into stronger hands. There are indications of quiet buying by strong parties, and we believe we are not far from a substantial improvement in the early months. Liverpool reported sales today of 7,000 bales spot cotton at unchanged quotations. Futures were 1-64 lower, but this was afterward recovered, and the market closed firm. The fluctu-ations in our market have been unimhortant. The opening prices showed a decline of one point, after which the early months lost two points on some big cotton being thrown over. This was afterward recovered, and the close was dull at one point below last night's prices.

The authorities of the road replied that they put the valuation too high last vear, and hadsimply corrected the mistake. The comptroller is inclined to think that the return for '88 was correct.

The roadbed and outfit of the Central railroad are exempt from taxa ion by its charter, and the robing stock or the Arlington. Cathbert and Perry branches is claimed to be exempt from texation as part of the outfit, but the comptroller thinks that this rolling stock is liable because it is surplus and not part of the outfit of the Central railroad proper. No rolling stock is returned for the Buena Vista and Effaville branch, the road claiming that they lease it, and therefore are not liable to pay taxes on it. The comptroller holds that this rolling stock is liable. The comptroller hads that this rolling stock is Active work of grading has begun on the Jacksonville and Anniston ratifold.

A lively railroad war is going on about n miles west of Montevallo between the nunwille and Nashville and the East Tennessee, Louisville and Nashville and the East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia raliroads. Both roads are ende avoring to get into Blocton and secure the best right-or-way possible. In consequence of which the Louisville and Nashville is laying track in many piaces on green poles and over hills and through important gaps in the mountains. The East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia men are not idle, but are pushing into every coveted place, and they are endeavoring to hold what they caim their own. Seve at hundred men are at work at Broth-town, a place a few mileswest of Blocton, and more are passing through in that direction every day. It seems that both roads are determined to build into Blocton and will be compelled to use almost the same route—hence the likely contention.

Articles of incorporation have been filed in Georgia and Florida. The road is to be built from Columbus, Ga., where it will connect with the Latamooga, Rome and Columbus and other roads, on a point in Leon or Gardsden counties, Fig. C. G. Gordan, of Celumbus, is one of the principal promind of late only because of the financial cloud over it, which brought about the appointment of a receiver, bids lair to be a line of importance in the near future. The whole line is being made stands and guage and relaid with the best quality of steel rails, and now the owners of it are seriously considering an extension, and where else should they want to come but to Birmingham?

The survey for an extension of the line to this city is seen to start, and it is understood that the receiver, Colonel C. P. Ball, of Montgomery, has raked up the cash, the United States circuit court having authorized him to issue receiver's certificates to the amount of $850,000, if he should think it necessary. It is claimed that he has aireally placed $100,000 of these certificates in New York. The work of widening the grade is going bavely abead, and many other improvemence are contemplated. New fron ordiges will be done. The contract for this work has not yet been let. The road will be faulty reconstructed and repaired and new roiling stock bought for it, equipping it thoroughly and properly.

An Interesting Subject. An Interesting Subject.

Few people have an idea of the cost of laying a railroad track. The question was practically discussed at the samual meeting of the Illinois Associa, the of Engineers and Surveyors a few days ago and the estimates ranged all the way from $300 to $100 per pile.

of track-layer of the Atchison, Topeka The chief track-layer of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe, the biggest railway sytem in America, press field a very interesting and instructive detailed statement of the cost of laying track. His total of the cost of surfacing and laying one mile of track is $247.77. But it must be considered that on this system they have the cost down to a minumum and it is really less than on a great many other systems of almost equal magnitude and importance. Take the Louisville and Nashville, or Queen and Crescent roads, for instance. It is estimated that is costs these two systems, or either of them, nearly, if not quite $390 per mile to lay track, and yet labor is cheaper in the south than in the west, but they have to bring material further, which more than makes up the difference.

250,000 Grand Republic Segaros-Largest Shipment

Ever Brought South.

The good work still goes on. The famous Grand Republic Segaros still keep the lead, and from the indications will hold it for time to come. Yesuerday a passer-by could have seen 250,000 of these eigans stacked up in front of W. A. Russell's tobacco store. The fact is, the people will buy them-they have merits that few other cigars have. Only a few weeks ago Mr. Russell received a large shipment of these goods and this order is a duplicate of the one previously given. Five hundred thousand of these Grand Republic goods incless than five months is a fine showing for one house, when it is remembered that a large and choice assortment of other brands of goods are handled at the same time. But those who know Mr. Russell are aware of his capacity for business. They know also of the merit of the goods he carries, especially of these famous Grand Republic Cigaros. These goods are at wholesale by W. A. Russell, and for retail by the trade generally. Call'for them. Ever Brought South.

Hollydale Stock FARM

Has Decided to close out the entire Herd of Jerseys, numbering about

ONE HUNDRED Of the Finest Cattle Ever Seen in the Southern States.

This sale will take place on June 20th, at the farm just in the suburbs of the city of Athens. Terms cash, or payable in the fall, with bankable notes, with 8 per cent interest. Owing to the great number and varieties of families represented, it will be impossible to mention in detail the many meritorious qualities of all, they are either registered or subject to registry, and the aunouncement will be made fully on day of sale. The bull that stands at the head of this famous herd is "Rubana Rioter," one of the grandest inbred Stoke-Pogis Victor Hugo bulls in America today, possessing 96% per cent of the blood of Mary Ann, of St. Lambert, and 871 per cent of the blood of Ida, of St. Lambert. He is the sire of nearly all the young cows and heifers, making crosses on the Comassie, Scituate, Eurotes and various other families of prominence in the Jersey world, and a more promising set of young cows and heifers never entered a prize

In this herd can be mentioned "Alice Jones' 31 pounds in seven days, now dead, though a number of her progeny show her to have been a most wonderful cow. "Laughing Maid," sold to a celebrated Tennessee herd with her great record, has a number of daughters and granddaughters which show the great excellency of her blood, being the daughter of the great "Tormentor," brother of Princess 2d, with her phenomenal record of over 46 pounds

"Scitnate," of Woronoca, tracing back directly to "Jersey Belle," of Scituate, with her record of over 28 pounds in a week, is a most worthy representative of the family. In fact, there it no family of Jerseys of any prominence to be named, but has a representative in this

In the selection of this herd, it was prominently the idea to collect the best members of the best families and cross them on to the finest bull to be had, and the great expense was always a minor consideration. The result has more than satisfied the most skeptical, and a would-be purchaser will be astonished to find himself able to purchase on the above date anything in the Jersey line his most fastidious taste may wish. Do not fail to attend this sale, for there will be sold to the highest bid-der the finest and best collection of Jerseys ever offered to the public. For particulars address,

MR. J. M. NACE KILLED. AN OLD ATLANTIAN MEETS A HOR-

A Well Known Lumber Man Jumps From a Train, Falls Under the Wheels and Meets a Violent Death-His Remains to Be Buried Tomorrow.

Mr. J. M. Nace, one of the oldest citizens of Atlanta, was killed at the Moore street crossing over the Georgia railroad vesterday morn-

Mr. Nace has been a citizen of Atlanta since '58, and it is doubtful if another man in Atlanta had as wide an acquaintance. The news of the fatal accident was a shock to hundreds of friends.

The Moore street crossing is the one nearest his place of business, 285 Decatur street, and for months past Mr. Nace has come to Atlanta on the 6:30 train and jumped from it at the very spot where he was killed yesterday. The accident was witnessed by not exceeding half a dozen people and there is some doubt as to how he was thrown under the wheels. He lived only seven or eight minutes after the ac-

Geo. S. May & Co., cident and gave no explanation of it.

About six months ago Mr. Nace finished his some at Clifton, three and a malf miles from Atlanta, and has resided there since. It was his custom to come in every morning with Conluctor Perkins on No. 3, the 6:30 train. He boarded the train at Clifton as usual, leaving his seat just before the train reached the Moore street crossing. He jumped from the steps, and an instant later was lying with his left leg across the rail. Before he could move two wheels had passed over the leg, crushing the bone from ankle to hip and severing the femoral artery.

A crowd gathered immediately and friends did all that could be done. "John," asked one of them, "do you know

The dying man nodded. "Take me home," he gasped; "I want to be carried home."
A minute later he was unconscious from the fearful loss of blood, and dead before a physi-cian could reach him. His body was carried to Swift's undertaking establishment, and will to Swift's undertaking establishment, and will be buil id from there this forencon.

Coroner Ayary was notified and an inquest held. The evidence left a choice between two theories. One of these is that as Mr. Nace jumped from his car he was thrown against a box car on a track parallel to the Georgia track, and only four or five feet from it, and was thrown back by the shock. The more probable theory is that he held to the railing as he jumped. The train was going faster than he thought, and before he could loose his hold on the railing he had been jerked down under the wheels.

The following verdict was returned by the oroner's jury:
We the jury, empaneled and sworn to inquire nto the cause of the death of J. M. Nacc, here lead, find from the evidence adduced that he came to his death by jumping from the Georgia railroad train known as No. 3 while in motion, and being run over by said train.

A. P. Morgan, Foreman, J. C. Avary, Coroner.

Mr. Nace was born in Baltimore and resided there until '58, when he moved to Atlanta. He married in Baltimore Miss Anna R. Wiker. Mr. Nace built aftour mill on Decatur street, exactly where the lumber yard and mill now is. During the war the mill was rented by the confederate government. Mr. Nace remained confederate government. Mr. Nace remained here until Sherman came through and burned his mill, and when Sherman left Atlanta Mr. Nace came back and located his lumber yard where the mill had been. There he has been er since. Mr. Nace leaves four children—William W. and Ed S. Nace, and Misses Georgia and May Nace. All of them live in Atlanta. The body will be buried in Oakland ceme-tery beside his wife's grave today.

Liebermuth's Store, on Decatur Street, Closed Yesterday by the Sheriff.

The store of Daniel Liebermuth, on Decatur Street, was closed yesterday by three mortgage executions. One was by M. & J. Hirsch for $253.00, one by M. C. & J. F. Referring to a certain enterprise a geutieman was heard to remark yesterday: "You are doing the best advertising of this enterprise I have ever seen." RETAIL GROCERS.

Do more work for less remuneration that any other class of merchants. Few seem to realize how much trouble it is to collect and distribute groceries to please the variety of tastes in a city like Atlanta, Nearly every one seems to desire a different brand of the same commodity. This often worries and taxes the grocer unnecessarily. In selling flour here this is certainly not necessary. Ph. H. Postel's floor can be had fresh and nice on short settle. otice. It is always uniform and we believe makes more and better bread and pastry than any other on this market. It is wonderfully beautiful, and perfectly pure. It costs a little more than ordinary patents, but the best always costs something but is heapest in the end.

The Postels are model millers and give their personal attention to the manufacture of this flour. They will not buy grain from an elevator—only from farmers' wagons—and every sack is sampled by Ph. H. Postel, Jr. Their ambition is to make the best, and they have succeeded. Every package is guaranteed to please and warranted absolutely A question for the readers of this adverlisement:

Who makes the flour you use? Is it pure, full of gluten and nutritious? Does 'it always rise and give satisfaction, or is it sometimes heavy and dead and merely white with starch? Does it not pay to have the heat? Ask Your grocer for Postel's "Elegant." PIEDMONT PATENT.
